Free-Choice Share requires you to use our online platform to choose the items you would like in your order for that week. Online selection will begin the week prior to pickup. You must be available to choose your items; we will not choose on your behalf. You have all season to use your balance; you may add to the balance at anytime if desired. No refunds will be made for unspent balance. You are not required to place an order twice per month, but the option is there for you to do so. Due to the nature of farming, the twice per month option will allow you to get the most out of the season while allowing us to distribute our harvests more easily.
